

DC Tax Revision Commission

STAKEHOLDER MEETING: Grassroots Organizing

Date/time: Wednesday, May 3, 1:45-3:15 pm

Location: Due to limited space, members of the public are encouraged to attend via livestream.

Livestream link: <https://bit.ly/DCGrassroots>

Overview: The DC Tax Revision Commission will host a small-group conversation focusing on tax issues relating to small businesses and other employers. Participants are invited to respond to the following questions:

- Do you see ways that the tax code can be improved (in terms of who it taxes, how it's implemented, or what it affords)?
- Are there ways the DC tax code can do a better job of advancing economic efficiency and competitiveness?
- What are ways that you would recommend making our tax code more resilient to economic changes and shocks?
- What would a fairer tax code look like?
- How can the tax system help improve racial equity?
- Do you have any general or specific ideas about how the city should improve tax administration?
- When there are potential tensions/tradeoffs among our stated principles - for example, if a proposal to increase competitiveness risks reducing progressivity - how should the Commission balance and prioritize? How should the Commission balance and prioritize its various goals and commitments?
- How can the Commission continue to engage the community to collect their ideas and feedback on the DC tax system?

Participants (invited):

- Parisa Norouzi, Empower DC
- Jamila White, Ward 8 Community Economic Development
- Elizabeth Falcon, DC Jobs with Justice
- LaDon Love, SPACES in Action
